

FORGER IS SENT TO REFORMATORY

Ebberts Pleads Guilty to Petit Larceny and Draws Term of from One to Eight Years.

HAD NOTHING TO SAY IN COURT

Chester Ballard Sentenced to Term of from One to Seven Years in Reformatory.

Harry Ebberts, of Ravenna, O., who was arrested here ten days ago after he had given a worthless check in payment for a pair of shoes, pleaded guilty to petit larceny in circuit court this afternoon and was sentenced by Judge Swails to a term of from one to eight years in the Indiana Reformatory. He was also fined $5 and disfranchised for two years. The defendant made no comment after sentence was pronounced. In the court room when he was sentenced were his wife and little daughter.

Ebberts has attracted more attention than any prisoner that has been held in the county jail for a long time. Thursday afternoon he attempted to escape from jail and was recaptured after he ran about two blocks. A few hours later he attempted to commit suicide by swallowing small pieces of tin which he had broken from a tobacco box. For a day or so his condition was critical but he has almost fully recovered. It was rumored around the court house Monday that he intended to plead guilty.

Ebberts was arrested on an affidavit which charged him with larceny, forgery and issuing a forgery. The two latter counts of the indictment were dismissed.

The defendant passed the check at the Cut Price Boot Shop but was "shadowed" for a hour or so by the police before he was apprehended. The police are of the opinion that he has passed a large number of fraudulent checks although he maintained that he had secured money on but one or two others. The police were notified that he had issued and passed a bad check at Princeton which he gave in payment for a suit of clothes. They were returned to the merchant at Princeton by the sheriff.

The prisoner's "outfit" consisted of a number of checks drawn on several Indiana and Ohio banks and also numerous blank checks. He stamped the name of the Addison Building Company on the checks and signed the name of Hilton as secretary of the concern. He also had a check protecting machine in his possession when arrested. He will be taken to Jeffersonville at once.

Chester Ballard was on trial today in circuit court upon the charge of failing to support his children. He was found guilty by the jury after it deliberated about fifteen minutes and he was sentenced to the Indiana Reformatory for a term of from one to seven years.

MRS. SARAH SMITH PASSED AWAY MONDAY AFTERNOON

Deceased Was Eighty-five Years of Age and Had Been Ill for About Three Weeks.

Another of Seymour's oldest residents, Mrs. Sarah J. Smith, has been called by death, having passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Catherine Smith, on West Second street at 4:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. She had been ill for the last three weeks with heart trouble.

Mrs. Smith would have been eighty-six years of age next July. She was born in Ireland and immigrated to this country with her father in 1840 shortly after the death of her mother. The family settled at New York and soon after her marriage to Mr. Smith she moved to Boston.

The family lived there until 1881 when they came to Seymour. She is survived by two sons, James, of Cleveland, and Joseph, of Washington, D. C., three daughters, Mrs. Arabella Cox, of Birmingham, Ala., Mrs. Sarah Procter, and Mrs. Catherine Meyers, of this city, twenty grand children and eleven great grand children. Her husband died twenty-two years ago.

The funeral will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the residence, conducted by Rev. M. E. Prather, pastor of the Presbyterian church. Burial at Riverview cemetery.

HOME GROWN STRAWBERRIES ARE OF VERY FINE VARIETY

Many Are Being Marketed Here by Jackson County Growers—Special Berry Trains.

Home grown strawberries have appeared on the market and are said to be the finest that have been brought to this city for a number of years. Besides being large and solid the Jackson county berries are unusually sweet. Dealers say they are far superior to the variety that was shipped here earlier in the season. The first home grown berries were brought in several days ago and the quantity is increasing each day.

Floyd county, one of the strawberry producing centers of the state is making large shipments. The first car load left New Albany Sunday night and before the close of the week it is thought that the special berry trains will be run. Each year thousands of crates of berries are transported from Floyd county to Indianapolis and Chicago markets over the traction lines. The berries are ripening late this year because of the dry weather.

Funeral Today.

The funeral services of Mrs. Fred Meyers were held this afternoon at the Methodist church at Vallonia conducted by Rev. Mr. Adam. Mrs. Meyers died Sunday evening at her home after a long illness of heart trouble. She was seventy years old and spent most of her life in Jackson county. The husband and seven children survive.

Died at Poor Farm.

Mrs. Emma Cross, died this afternoon at three o'clock at the county poor farm following a week's illness. She was formerly of Kurtz. The funeral arrangements will be made later.

PROPERTY OWNERS ARE ASKED TO AID

Mayor Urges Residents to Assist in Keeping City Free from Trash, Rubbish and Debris.

PROVISIONS OF ORDINANCE

Garbage Must be Kept in Water Tight Containers and Must be Free from Cans and Glass.

With the hope that the city may be kept free from ashes, trash and debris, Mayor Ross has issued a statement, urging all property owners to co-operate with the collectors and to comply with the provisions of the ordinance. He calls attention to certain requirements which must be met before the collectors are obliged to remove the trash and garbage.

It is especially desired that property holders keep their premises free from trash this summer as the streets, alleys and yards are in excellent condition as a result of the successful clean-up campaign which was conducted a few weeks ago. It is pointed out that with very little work upon the part of each property owner the city can be kept in a clean, sanitary condition if the garbage and trash is removed regularly.

Mayor Ross' statement is as follows:

Now that the city has been cleaned up, we request the co-operation of every individual to keep it so. The garbage and ash collections are under bond to properly do their work, but to get efficient service every householder must do his part. That you may do so systematically and in compliance with the ordinance we will briefly review it:

"All garbage must be kept in water tight receptacles, free from cans, broken glass, etc.

"Ashes and cinders must be kept in one receptacle. Tin cans, broken glass, etc., in another.

"All combustible matter must be burned.

"All receptacles must be kept on the premises at a point easily accessible from the street or alley.

"Garbage collector must cover the city at least once a week, must collect at hotels and restaurants every day."

If you have complied with these requirements and are not getting proper service call phone 500.

Copies of the ordinance giving full details can be had at the clerk's office.

JUDICIAL TICKET GIVEN ATTENTION

Republicans in Jackson and Lawrence Counties are Well Pleased With Prospects.

BREAK AMONG DEMOCRATS

Marshall Woolery, Bedford Attorney, Announces as Republican Candidate for Prosecuting Attorney.

Republicans of Jackson and Lawrence counties are giving attention to the judicial ticket and the leaders of the party are sanguine of success this fall. Several prominent attorneys in Seymour, Mitchell and Bedford have been mentioned in connection with the office of prosecutor but the first candidate to announce is Marshall Woolery, of the Stone City.

Because of the "break" in the Democratic ranks many in that party have openly declared that they would support the Republican candidate for prosecuting attorney. It will be recalled that several weeks ago a bitter fight was waged between two Democratic candidates for this office, Jackson county Democrats, or some of them, insisted that this county should have the office while a clique in Lawrence county contended that the office rightfully belonged to John Underwood.

The fight became so bitter that there was no compromise between the candidates and the question was carried to the state committee to decide how and when a primary should be held. The Jackson county Democrats declare that they received a "raw" decision and were dissatisfied with the findings of the committee. After the fight had continued for several weeks with increasing bitterness the field was left open to the present prosecutor who will again make the race.

The date for the Republican convention or primary has not yet been set by the committee but it will probably be held some time in July.

Mr. Woolery, who has announced for prosecutor subject to the Republican judicial nominating convention, is the son of the late Joseph Woolery, a union soldier. He was born and reared in Lawrence county and worked his way unaided to his present prominent position. During his youth he was employed on the farm, in the office and in the mill but after completing his common school training he entered the state normal. He also studied Blackstone, Kent and other legal text books and in the spring of 1907 was graduated from the Indiana Law School.

During the time he has been engaged in the practice of his profession at Bedford he has been quite successful and has the confidence of those who know him. He has given considerable attention to criminal practice and has been attorney in a number of important cases. Mr. Woolery is a loyal Republican and this is the first time he has made a race for a public office.

It is conceded that Mr. Woolery would conduct the duties of the prosecutor's office in an efficient and impartial manner and if nominated and elected would serve his trust well.

ARTIST TO GIVE ADDRESS AT ART EXHIBIT TONIGHT

Cordial Invitation is Extended to Public to Hear T. C. Steele—Arrangements Completed.

Considerable interest is manifested in the address which will be given at the art exhibit tonight at the high school building by T. C. Steele, an Indianapolis artist. He will give his talk about 8:30 or 9 o'clock in the high school assembly room. The public is cordially invited to visit the exhibit and hear this address.

In some manner a number of persons have received the impression that the art exhibit could not be visited except by the members of the League, but this is a mistake. The committee desires that every person in Seymour visit the exhibit and every convenience possible has been arranged at the school building. The exhibit will be open during the afternoons and evenings until June 9. Everyone is not only welcome but urged to visit the exhibit. No admission fee is charged as the expenses are met by the League.

The arrangement committee, of which Mrs. O. O. Swails is chairman, has been working at the school building the last two days preparing for the visitors. The pictures have been placed in the corridor and in the northeast and northwest rooms. In order that the proper lighting effects may be obtained the electric lights have been especially arranged so that each picture is well illuminated. Large bouquets have been placed in the corridors and add to the general appearance of the exhibit.

The local exhibit will be found in the northeast room and has already been visited by many persons. Fifty-one pictures were contributed by local people and many of them are far above the average. "The Old Violin" and several others have attracted especial attention.

In the northwest room will be found the high school exhibit. This includes work in the art, domestic science and sewing departments.

It is expected that the assembly room will be crowded tonight because of the address of Mr. Steele.

LAND PROBLEM IS NEARING SOLUTION

Missions at Niagara Falls Coming to Agreement About One of Important Questions.

GEN. CARRANZA IS WATCHFUL

Believed That Further Aggressive Movement by U. S. Troops Can be Avoided.

Washington, May 26—When the administration resumed its study of the Mexican situation today it was encouraged by these developments.

The Huerta and American missions at Niagara Falls were nearing accord on the disposition of the troublesome land problem—one of the causes of Mexican unrest.

A satisfactory basis for resolving the dispute between the Huerta government and the United States—the international phase of the equation—was declared to have been reached.

Denial was made that Carranza had refused to consider any form of mediation proposals.

Some men in the confidence of the Constitutionalists declared the northern chief was closely watching proceedings at Niagara and was seriously considering some proposals.

Of those developments, the view was taken in some quarters that reports that the two missions sought to approach the vexing agrarian problem in a spirit of conciliation, seemed most encouraging. The Huerta delegates were said to have receded from their original position that the land issue was for internal solution only, while the American mission gave ground from its first viewpoint that it should be settled at the mediation proceedings.

With that factor giving promise of adjustment, the hope grew in administration circles that further aggressive movements by American troops in Mexico could be averted, and peace ultimately restored in the southern republic. Reports from Mexico City stated there was a hopeful feeling among government officials over the conference, but they believed it would continue longer than first anticipated.

Dr. O. H. King, of Vincennes, was here today the guest of W. H. Hughes on his way to Louisville to attend the commencement at the Baptist Seminary. His brother is one of the graduates and will leave soon for China as a missionary from his home church in Little Rock, Ark.

Bedford has purchased a new automobile fire truck. The officials tests were made Monday afternoon for about three hours and were satisfactory. The company was able to obtain a high pressure with the new equipment.

Titanic's Liability Limited.

Washington, May 26.—The supreme court has upheld the right of the Oceanic Steam Navigation company, owners of the ill-fated Titanic, to limit its liability on account of that disaster to an amount equal to the value of its salvage and the amount received for carrying passengers and freight. This would make its total liabilities only about $91,000. The opinion affects only such suits as were brought in this country against the Oceanic.

Remorse Caused Suicide.

Fort Wayne, Ind., May 26.—Goldie Archbold, aged fifteen, daughter of a railroad conductor, died in a local hospital from the effects of bichloride of mercury tablets, which she swallowed ten days ago following her arrest with Erma Freeland, another Fort Wayne girl, for the theft of a horse and buggy.

INDIANA BREWERS OPEN CASE AGAINST SALOONISTS

Two Indianapolis Dealers Violated Law and Revocation of Licenses are Asked.

By United Press. Indianapolis, May 26.—Attorney for saloonists gained a continuance of the case until next Tuesday.

By United Press. Indianapolis, May 26.—The Indiana Brewers' Association opened its case against two Indianapolis saloon keepers before the commissioners court here today, introducing evidence to show that West Stout and Ernest Roeder, proprietors of the Bohemia bar and Brighton Beach respectively, had repeatedly broken the law. The association is trying to get the commissioners to revoke these two licenses. Roy Sickles testified that he knew of six instances in which Stout had violated the law by selling on Sunday. Court records were introduced showing fines against Roeder for law violations and a man named Malkus testified to sales after hours.

Representatives of the Brewers would not be quoted on the question of whether their campaign against law-violating saloon keepers would be extended to other cities in Indiana. It is the general impression that the brewers will limit their efforts to Indianapolis, for the present at least.

Attorney R. C. Minton for the Anti-Saloon league, who was a spectator at the trial, said that he wished the brewers success in their efforts to have revoked the licenses of the two saloon keepers. He said the licenses ought to be revoked. The case was unique from his viewpoint, for, he said, in the many cases he had conducted for the Anti-Saloon league against saloon keepers he had always opposed attorneys for the brewers.

Fred Johnson, an attorney, who was the petitioner in this case, representing the brewers, was assisted today by George Shirts, regular attorney for the brewers.

The Brighton Beach roadhouse, involved today, has been a notorious resort for a number of years. Many raids have been made there since Roeder took charge, and these were turned against him today. Standing in an out-of-the-way place, off a boulevard, this roadhouse has been a favorite resort for auto parties. The Bohemia bar is located opposite the Interurban Terminal station.

When the brewers first filed their cases E. S. Shumaker for the Anti-Saloon league termed their activity "grandstanding" and "four-flushing" in an attempt to "divert the minds of the people from constitutional prohibition next year."

INDIANA MAN ESCAPES KNIFE USING MAYR'S STOMACH REMEDY

Charles Inman Able to Go to Work After Operation Was Advised.

Charles Inman, 424 East Chestnut Street, Hartford City, Ind., was desperately ill. He was advised to go to Fort Wayne for an operation.

Then he took Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy and in a short time was able to go back to work. In a letter he said:

"My disease started seven years ago. I had to give up and go to bed. Four doctors said they could not cure me unless I went to Fort Wayne to be operated on, and that it would cost me $150 or $200. My daughter saw your advertisement and I took your treatment. In three weeks I went to work and haven't missed but one-half day since from sickness. It surely saved my life."

Similar stories of health restored are told in letters from people all over the United States. Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy is known everywhere. The first dose proves—no long treatment.

Mayr's Wonderful Stomach Remedy clears the digestive tract of mucus accretions and removes poisonous matter. It brings swift relief to sufferers from ailments of the stomach, liver and bowels. Many declare it has saved them from dangerous operations and many are sure it has saved their lives.

Because of the remarkable success of this remedy there are many imitators, so be cautious. Be sure it's MAYR'S. Go to C. E. Loertz' drug store and ask about the wonderful results it has been accomplishing—or send to Geo. H. Mayr, Mfg. Chemist, 154-156 Whiting St., Chicago, Ill., for free book on stomach ailments and many grateful letters from people who have been restored. Any druggist can tell you its wonderful effects.

SECRET PASSAGES ARE DISCOVERED

Nearly all Buildings near Plaza at Vera Cruz are Connected by Network of Tunnels.

ADVANTAGE TO THE SNIPERS

Sharp Shooters Would Suddenly Disappear and when Found would be Without Weapons.

(By Bernard Rucker, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

Vera Cruz, Mexico, May 26.—That the heart of Vera Cruz is a veritable honeycomb has just been discovered by the American forces occupying the port. Subterranean passages have been discovered connecting nearly all the buildings within several squares of the Plaza. The bluejackets under Admiral Fletcher discovered on the first day that the roofs of all the houses in a block were so connected that snipers might be a considerable distance away from the spot from which shots were fired by the time the sailor boys entered the house.

The discovery of the underground passages supplementing the inter-roof communications explained why the men from the ships were unable to capture the snipers who fired on them. During the two days of actual fighting and the several days of desultory sniping thereafter, the bluejackets and marines were frequently mystified by the complete disappearance of the men they knew fired on them, or else the sudden appearance of the men in some other house, unarmed, no weapons to be found and smiling in friendly fashion, meanwhile uttering whole volleys of "amigos."

Early in the game it was discovered that there were innumerable passages from roof to roof, by which the Mexicans could scurry away when their sniping point of vantage was discovered. Frequently, when the Americans discovered a roof from which shots were being fired, they would storm the house and search it. Either they would find the place utterly deserted or they would find the householder on the ground floor, not a gun in sight. The discovery of the tunnels today shed a great deal of light on the escape of the snipers and the failure of the Americans to get them "with the goods." It is now obvious that once the Mexicans knew their places of concealment were discovered, they scuttled away over the roofs and through the subterranean passages and were in some totally different house when the Americans finally caught them.

Notwithstanding the stirring and martial events attending the American occupation of Vera Cruz, the education of the Mexican children here is not to be neglected. The public schools of the port were opened for work on Monday, May 4 after being closed for little more than a week. On Tuesday, April 21, when Admiral Fletcher landed marines and bluejackets from the Utah and the Florida, the Mexican superintendent of instructions ordered the schools to be closed down indefinitely. Following the cessation of hostilities, the school children of the town ran riot about the streets, most of them becoming newsboys selling the native papers, El Dictamen, La Opinion and the English paper, the Mexican Herald.

Enterprising Mexican school teachers awoke to their opportunity and reaped a rich harvest by taking private pupils at one peso a week each. When the situation was called to the attention of Civil Gov. Kerr, the governor forthwith issued an order commanding all public teachers to report for duty on Monday morning and a proclamation was ordered, notifying the American people that their children could be returned to school. The Mexican public schools never close, but run all the year round. There is no summer vacation as in the United States, but from time to time the pupils drop out and take their rest from the school-work, books and slate.

The refuge problem is the biggest with which the American Commanders, Rear Admiral Badger and Brig. Gen. Funston now have to deal. It is like pulling eye teeth to get some of the Americans of Mexico City and Tampico to go to the United States. When the transport Hancock arrived today from Puerto Mexico with 493 refugees from Mexico City, most of them Americans, it was necessary to isolate them on the Hancock in order to keep them from returning to Mexico. The transport cast anchor at sunrise in the outer harbor, not far from the flag-ship Arkansas and remained there until the refugees could be transhipped to the S. S. Monterey, of the Ward Line, which ran outside last night for that purpose. Rear Admiral Fletcher, on the arrival of the Hancock issued orders that nobody should be allowed to board her except on special permit from Consul Canada. On shore there were scores of Americans all clamoring to see the refugees on the Hancock. Some of them were relatives of the people aboard. Business men who came to Vera Cruz last week were frantic to know if their wives and children were safe. Vera Cruz Americans wanted to know if their families were aboard, but Fletcher was obdurate. He explained that it was impossible to allow all applicants to board the Hancock and it was equally in expedient to allow the refugees to land, else they would disappear and refuse to leave the country.

That has been the way ever since the Americans took possession of Vera Cruz. Refugees from Mexico and intermediate points who came in by rail as well as those brought from Muerto, Progreso and Tampico by ship, were anxious enough to keep this far but when they reached Vera Cruz and found things tranquil and prosperous, they did not want to go to the United States. Rear Admiral Badger appointed Lieut. Marquardt of the Arkansas to take charge of refugees and see them properly disposed of.

CHANGE OF VENUE WILL BE ASKED IN BALL MURDER CASE

Defendant, Member of State Militia, Shot Guardsman Who Disobeyed Orders.

By United Press.

Indianapolis, May 26.—Now that attorneys have exhausted most of the means at hand to cause delay in the Edwin Ball murder trial, which involved the state militia and is of state-wide interest, it appears that the next move and one of the last ones before the actual trial will be a request for a change of venue to an adjoining county. Attorneys in the case are interested in the case before the United States Supreme court, which delays action for the present. Date of trial has not been set.

Ball, a sergeant in the Indiana National Guard, is charged with the murder of Walter Dowell, a private. During the state encampment last year Dowell was arrested by Ball and was being taken to camp at Fort Benjamin Harrison when he broke away and tried to escape. Ball ordered him to halt and then fired, killing Dowell.

Asserting that Ball was merely following rules and regulations of the National Guard, his attorneys tried to get a court martial for him. This was denied by Judge Markey of the criminal court, who insisted that the civil courts try Ball. This issue between the civil and military courts of Indiana is a new one and is being watched closely, by national guardsmen and others.

An interesting feature has been brought up by friends of Ball who assert that the recent Mexican crisis will exert such an influence favoring strict discipline that Ball will stand a better chance of acquittal.

Another Back Home.

Indianapolis, May 26.—Allen Whicker, a Hendricks county farmer, who supported the Progressive party in 1912, in a letter to Republican State Chairman Will H. Hays, again identifies himself with the Republican party. Mr. Whicker writes: "I am one that has voted the Republican ticket since the organization of the party, until 1912 I voted for Roosevelt. I was opposed to Mr. Taft because of his free trade tendencies with Canada."

"Having been a farmer and stock raiser all my life, experience had taught me that the farmer could not stand free trade. I owe my success as a farmer to the policies of the Republican party. I am thoroughly convinced that the Republicans and Progressives should unite, under the eagle, to fight our common enemy—the free trade party."

RESULT OF FREE TRADE.

Despite the reports of some of the Democratic newspapers the Progressives are returning to the Republican party with remarkable rapidity. Each day a number of prominent men who took an active part in the Bull Moose party two years ago sent word to the Republican state headquarters at Indianapolis that they are again in the Republican ranks and will give that party their aid and support in the coming election.

One of the most astounding Progressive losses is seen in the recent primary in Lake county where only 650 votes were cast although two years ago the party showed a vote of 5,659. In the same county two years ago the Republicans cast 5,176 votes and in the primary this year the Republican vote was 5,950. The Democrats cast only about one-half as many votes in the primary as they did in the election of 1912. In fact in no primary held this year in Indiana has the Democratic vote equaled seventy per cent. of their vote cast for president in 1912, showing that many Republicans supported Wilson in that campaign.

But there is nothing unusual about the return of so many Progressives to their former party. The majority of those who did not vote with their party last fall failed to do so because of personal objection against the presidential candidate and not because they lacked faith in the principles enunciated by the Republican platform. These men who voted for Roosevelt two years ago were sincere and are now conscientious in their return to the Republican party. They realize that it must be through this party that prosperity be restored with a general improvement in industrial conditions throughout the country.

One of the reasons why so many are returning to the Republican fold is because of the miserable failure of the Democratic free trade measure. Although the new tariff law has been in operation but a short time, its effects are clearly seen. The cost of living has not been reduced but the price of corn, oats and other farm products are lowered as a result of the unequal competition with foreign markets. Argentine corn has been received here and the Jackson county farmers are compelled to meet the prices for which that grain can be bought and shipped here. The farmers further realize that better results will not come through the Democratic party—a party that has insistently urged free trade. As the effect of the new tariff measure is further impressed upon the minds of the American farmers, the more rapid will be their return to the Republican party so that the evils of uneven competition may be remedied.

The Democratic party is fully aware that its success depended upon the continued breach in the Republican ranks and for that reason set out to aid the new party leaders in making the public believe that the organization was steadily growing. Their efforts, however, have resulted in failure. The American voter studies the questions of the day for himself and is better informed how to cast his vote than the Democratic demagogues believe.

TOILING FOR SUCCESS.

In a few days the members of the Senior Class will receive their high school diplomas which are official certificates that they have completed their high school course. The presentation of these diplomas does not necessarily mean that they are fully equipped to go out into the world and successfully fight the battles of life. A high school course affords the student an opportunity to study in a meagre way some of the political, industrial, social and economical questions with which they will be confronted later in life and their success in meeting these questions will depend upon the thoroughness of their work. A high school cannot make a student. It is true the standard of work can be raised to such a point that the student's knowledge will be broadened but the successful student is the one that masters the course because he appreciates its great value to him.

In this age when almost every young man and young woman is a graduate of at least some high school, competition in every department of life's activities is more keen and the man or woman who attains the highest degree of success is the one who has acquired an abundance of sound common sense along with the theoretical knowledge. The demand today in business as well as in professional circles is for the man or woman of strong character, clean in habits and thought, trustworthy and honest and who realizes that ultimate success comes only by victories over daily battles. The young man or woman who is contented to wait for the big things in life will never reach them and if they are given an opportunity they will not be prepared to hold their positions. Success as a rule is the reward of toil and the mastering of each task as it is presented is the training for the bigger duties of life.

As a class the Seniors, who will this year complete their high school course, have made a high average. It is composed of young men and young women who have shown their ability to conquer the small problems which confronted them and are therefore, well prepared to meet the greater responsibilities. The Seniors have reason to be proud of their high school and the high school on the other hand has reason to be proud of the class. The members have shown that they appreciated the advantages that have been provided for them and there is every reason to believe that when they step into the wider field of activity they will become men and women whose influence for the things worth while will be felt in the community in which they labor.

Proselets are most encouraging for Republican success in Indiana this fall. The party has made a special effort in all counties to nominate strong, clean men who will give the taxpayers the service for which they pay.

The Republican ticket in Jackson township is worthy of the support of every voter who is desirous of good government. The candidates are well known throughout the township and will safeguard the interests of the people.

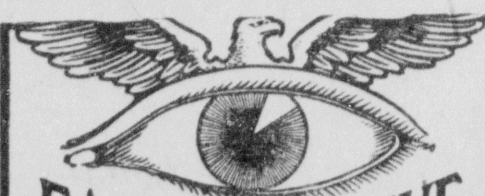

With the representatives of the United States mediating with the representatives of Huerta it would seem that the administration after all his recognized the Dictator.

ROSES DECORATE LAWNS THROUGHOUT THE YEAR

Lighter Shade of Foliage of Many Varieties is Pleasing Contrast to Other Shrubbery.

Roses, when used for decorative purposes on the home grounds, serve to set off a fine lawn, and improve the appearance of a place not only during their blooming time, but throughout the year. Most of the varieties that are used as shrubs have a foliage of lighter appearance than the majority of other bushes used for similar adornment, and they are, therefore, placed preferably in front of the other plants. This will result in a pleasing contrast between the shades of green. They also contrast attractively with a greensward if placed close by the edge of the lawn. Roses used in this manner should be planted in comparatively large masses.

Roses which are grown mainly for bush or mass effect should be sparingly pruned, according to the U. S. Department of Agriculture's landscape gardener. They should be permitted to run wild instead of being pruned into any form, and only dead-wood or very old wood should be removed when they are pruned. Of the various species of roses used to beautify lawns, the most prominent are Rosa rugosa ("rugosa" referring to the rough foliage of the rose) and the common wild roses of the roadsides and thickets in the different sections of the United States.

Most of the roses used for mass effects have only single or almost single blooms. The bloom, however, is a comparatively insignificant feature of the decorative value of these roses. An even more attractive feature is the "hip" of the rose. The "hip" is the bright-red tip of the stem which enlarges to hold the seeds of the plant and remains a brilliant color during the winter, thus adding much to the attractiveness of the bush at a time when most shrubbery is leafless and bare.

Turning Lead Into Gold. Professor F. Solly, F. R. S., declares that it is only a question of application to change lead into gold. He says that while now we can only work with electricity at 100,000 volts, it is only a matter of perfecting the method to be able to work at ten times that voltage, when the baser metals can be changed into the more precious. In other words, electricity, when brought to its highest efficiency and application, is the real philosopher's stone for which the alchemists of the middle ages searched so long.—London Spectator.

REBELS DEMAND MILLION PESOS

Unless It Is Forthcoming
Trouble Is Feared.

HARSH CONDITIONS PREVAIL

With an Iron Hand the New Rulers of Important Oil Port Are Exacting of the People in Troubled City the Very Last of Their Possessions, and the Cost of Living Has Soared to an Inhibitory Point

Tampico, May 26.—The Spanish and German consuls have been asked for money, priests have been jailed for ransom, and the oil companies told they must pay for the maintenance of the rebel army now quartered in this port.

General Gonzales has demanded one million pesos, as follows: From the Aguila Oil company (English), 400,000 pesos; from Senor Trapaza, Spanish consul, 150,000; from a Spanish commercial house, 100,000; from the German consul, 100,000, and from the citizens of Tampico 250,000. All will probably pay or endeavor to pay the sums assessed against them except the German consul, who has refused, saying, "Germany will protect her subjects without the payment of a single peso."

The money is demanded of the consuls for protection of their subjects. Small shopkeepers who cannot pay actual money to the rebels are forced to give part of their stocks to outfit the Constitutional soldiers. Hundreds of pairs of shoes have been taken and placed on feet that have never before felt the confinement of leather.

Federal sympathizers who wish to leave Tampico are assessed 5,000 pesos each before passports are issued them. The rebel leaders declare that as soon as they have gotten the million pesos required they will reopen the banks and leave the custom house alone. They allowed ten days for this money to be raised, and unless it is forthcoming by then everyone here feels that a new crisis will be reached and much more blood spilled.

Rebels Close the Churches.

The rebels have closed the Catholic churches, accusing them of being traitors and their priests guilty of treason against their government. All of the priests fled the city with one exception and he was immediately imprisoned. A ransom of 50,000 pesos is demanded for his release. Five hundred women parishioners of his church on their knees implored Governor Luis Caballero to spare this priest, but the stern old governor replied: "He is a traitor. I shall execute him unless the ransom demanded is paid at once."

The women are trying to raise the money, and it seems likely they will succeed.

Travelling through the country round about Tampico, I have seen hundreds of peasants, their wives and children, literally starving and nothing can be done for them. Many of them have been beaten or wounded by rebel and federal soldiers, and the retreating rebels in leaving Tampico took from these peasants their last food of all sorts, driving and killing their cows, horses and stock and in many instances took with them the wives and daughters of the men they had robbed of all else.

Directly after the battle I saw wounded federal soldiers everywhere praying for death, begging that they be shot and not let suffer. One poor man wearing the insignia of a junior officer was shot through both legs and the stomach and lay in the middle of the street under the hot sun. He pitifully begged for water with poison in it, but a heartless rebel soldier only mocked at and kicked him.

Real war prices prevail here. It is impossible to eat a meal for less than $10. Fever is so prevalent that the only water that is safe to drink is that coming in bottles, and it costs a dollar a drink. Eggs sell at 50 cents each, gold, and everything else is correspondingly high.

Already oil wells and oil holdings have been damaged a million dollars worth. Around Tampico and Panuco everything is desolate.

WITH FITTING CEREMONIES

Princeton This Week Is Enjoying Centennial Celebration.

Princeton, Ind., May 26.—The joint Princeton-Gibson county centennial celebration here is now in full swing. This morning the centennial was formally opened by an address of welcome by Mayor D. R. Head. The response was given by Judge S. L. Van dever. The opening day has been styled Labor day, and there will be a big parade this evening and an address by President Charles Fox of the State Federation of Labor. The program for the week includes parades, speakings, historical features, music and free attractions.

Former Socialist Editor Killed.

FRANCIS KOSSUTH

Son of Hungarian Patriot
Dead After Long Illness.

Budapest, May 26.—Francis Kossuth, aged seventy-three, son of the great Hungarian patriot, is dead here. He had been an invalid for many months and his death did not come as a surprise.

A BOLD EFFORT TO FORCE INTERVENTION

Mexicans Pushing to Border to "Pick" a Fight.

El Paso, Tex., May 26.—Mounted flying columns of federal volunteers are making their way through southwestern Coahuila toward the border with the avowed intention of precipitating intervention by attacking American border patrols when they reach the international boundary, according to private telegrams received by Rafael Musquiz, rebel consul in El Paso.

One detachment of these federals has passed through Cuatro Ciengas, Coahuila, headed northward. Cuatro Ciengas is about 175 miles south of the frontier from Eagle Pass. Another column is reported marching toward Ojinaga, opposite Presidio, Tex. No exact estimate of the numbers is available, but it is reported that three different groups will total 700 or 800 men.

It is reported that these volunteers are ex-members of the volunteer commands under General Orozco and other leaders who took part in the Orozco revolution. Until recently they were garrisoned at Monclova, but on the evacuation of that city they turned westward instead of going south toward Saltillo. Among them, too, are troops who escaped the rebels after defeat at Paredon last week. These straggling forces, all making for the border, will be intercepted by Constitutional troops from Coahuila and Chihuahua points, according to Mr. Musquiz.

Double Domestic Tragedy.

Lafayette, Ind., May 26.—Alfred Bowen, a cement contractor, shot and killed his wife and then committed suicide. The double tragedy was witnessed by their fourteen-year-old son, who tried to prevent the shooting. Bowen was thirty-nine and his wife thirty-five. They had domestic trouble for several years.

Will Try Hanna in the Fall.

Port Wayne, Ind., May 26.—The case of Samuel D. Hanna, charged with forgery and perjury in connection with the half million dollar failure of the Hanna-Brackenridge company, will be tried this fall just after the trial of Anthony Trentman, his long time friend, for murder.

TERSE TELEGRAMS

At a secret consistory held at the Vatican Pope Pius created thirteen new cardinals.

The British government is using all of its influence in behalf of the mediators at Niagara Falls.

Stories that American marines have been landed at La Paz, on the west coast of Mexico, are denied.

Herr Liebknecht, the German Socialist leader, continues his exposure of the sale of honors by high government officials.

Both houses of congress adjourned Monday out of respect to the memory of the late Senator W. O. Bradley of Kentucky.

William Warner, an aeronaut, fell 1,000 feet into Lake Erie at Cleveland and was drowned. His bride was in the crowd that saw him fall.

All the ships under Admiral Badger now in the harbor of Vera Cruz have begun landing drills. The men are getting off a ship and onto shore with the speed of fire department companies.

An inquiry into the financial affairs of the Rock Island and the Pere Marquette railroads similar to the pending probe of the New Haven system, will soon be undertaken by the interstate commerce commission.

PAVING THE WAY FOR ADJUSTMENT

Mediators Getting Down to Basic Principles.

PRACTICAL ISSUES INVOLVED

These Will Be Taken Up at the Sessions of Important Conference Being Held at Niagara Without Further Delay and, Keeping Within the Object of the Call, an Attempt Will Be Made to Bring About an Agreement.

Niagara Fall, May 26.—The mediators have not reached beyond the preparatory part of their work; nothing definite regarding the settlement of the Mexican problem has yet been done, and it will not be before tomorrow that the three South American diplomats will begin to take up the practical issues involved. No plan for a commission form of government for Mexico has been even discussed at the meetings.

The formal statement was made to your correspondent by one of those who are best placed to know just exactly what is happening behind the closed doors of the conference room in the hotel here, where the fate of a nation is being settled.

It was stated on the very highest authority that the envoys of the three South American republics, who have undertaken the difficult task of attempting to solve the most intricate international problem known for the past century, have no intention, at any time, of going beyond their task of mediators. They will not attempt to select any president or commissioner to govern Mexico, and will, at no time, seek to become legislators on behalf of Mexico.

Their role will be confined throughout the conference to receiving the suggestions of the delegates of either side and to submitting these suggestions to the representatives of the other side, endeavoring at the same time to aid to the utmost extent of their ability, both sides to reach common ground.

VILLA AGAIN CHANGES PLAN

Rebel Leader Unexpectedly Returns to Saltillo.

Torreon, May 26.—General Villa has furnished a fresh surprise for Constitutional civil officials and the army. Having unexpectedly returned from Saltillo to Torreon, he as suddenly left the city and returned to Saltillo. Only his staff and bodyguard accompanied him. It was announced that the rebel commander had decided to return to Saltillo to assist in the restoration of order and the installation of a civil government. He also felt sudden anxiety that the federals under General Maas, who evacuated Saltillo, might return and crush the comparatively small garrison of 5,000 rebels left in the city under command of General Robles.

General Jose Ysabel has been placed in command of the town of Saltillo as jefe de las armas and is restoring order in the city. It is known that the federals destroyed much property in Saltillo, levied forced loans on all of the inhabitants and set fire to the casino, but no foreigners were killed, so far as known.

There will be no battle in Mexico City, but the final stand of the federals will be made at Cuernavaca, according to information reported to have been received from Villa. Little has been heard from the garrison which evacuated Saltillo and started toward San Luis Potosi. The last report received in Torreon was from Cateros, 110 kilometers south of Saltillo on the national lines, where the federals had arrived following the evacuation. The station is in the desert and the federals and refugees may starve before they arrive at San Luis Potosi, which is more than 200 miles from Saltillo.

Villa captured eight cannon and a large quantity of ammunition from the federals at Paredon, when he cut the federal garrison from Monclova to pieces while the troops were trying to reach Saltillo to reinforce that garrison.

She Refused to Kiss Him.

Indianapolis, May 26.—Perry Lynam stabbed and killed his wife at the home of her mother and escaped from the city on a motorcycle. Lynam asked his wife to return to his home with him. She refused. He then asked her to kiss him good-by, but she refused. Springing at her with a knife about four inches long, Lynam then stabbed her several times.

Change of Venue Granted.

Petersburg, Ind., May 26.—The trial of Ross Taylor, charged as an accomplice of James Taylor, who was found guilty of killing his stepbrother, Wesley Taylor, has been venue to Dubois county in the Pike circuit court. The trial will be held at the next term of court.

Was Asleep on the Bridge.

Shelbyville, Ind., May 26.—Michael Elchorn, aged thirty-five, was killed when he was struck by a traction car on a bridge across Sugar creek, near Brookfield. Elchorn was asleep on the bridge.

ERNESTO NATHAN

Former Mayor of Rome on His Way to San Francisco.

New York, May 26.—A delegation of Masons went down the bay to greet Ernesto Nathan, former mayor of Rome, who is on his way to San Francisco, where he will arrange for Italy's exhibition at the Panama-Pacific exposition.

"WHAT NEXT" IS NOW QUESTION IN IRELAND

Passage of Home Rule Bill
Hasn't Settled Things.

London, May 26.—For the third reading and final passage of the home rule bill, the floor and galleries of the house of commons were filled to the limit. The members overflowed into the side galleries and the peers were glad to find standing room.

There was at first a feeling of expectancy—a feeling that something might happen, but nothing did. The opposition refused to discuss what Bonar Law, the leader of the Unionists, called a "farce," and the bill passed with a majority of seventy-seven, of which seventy-four votes were cast by Irish Nationalists. Two Liberal members and eight followers of William O'Brien abstained from voting.

In the chamber itself the result was received with wonderful calm. There was cheering, but no great demonstration. Outside in the central hall the enthusiasm of the waiting Nationalists was more unrestrained. A triumphant procession was formed and the crowd cheered and sang "God Save Ireland" and "A Nation Once Again."

Within the chamber itself the chief interest lay in the preliminaries. The speaker appealed to Premier Asquith for some enlightenment in regard to the amending bill. Mr. Asquith's reply did nothing to help the situation. It simply amounted to saying that if during the Whitsuntide recess an arrangement can be made it will be embodied in the bill; otherwise his original offer of six years exclusion of Ulster from the provisions of the home rule bill will be repealed.

No one now hopes for an arrangement between the various parties, although Mr. Asquith declared that he had not yet abandoned hope.

Reports declare everything quiet in Ireland. There is no excitement in Dublin, while Belfast is perfectly calm. In fact, although home rule has won at last, for within a few weeks from now it will go automatically on the statute book, the impression created is not one of finality, but rather of "What next?"

BODY FOUND IN THE OHIO

Mysterious Disappearance of Old Soldier Explained.

Madison, Ind., May 26.—The body of James McGowan, who mysteriously disappeared in February, has been found in the Ohio river. He was an old soldier and had just drawn his pension when he disappeared. He was thought to have been robbed, but the money was in his pocket.

Two hundred Mexican federals were killed and 500 made prisoners when rebels stormed the defenses of the city of Tepic. The rebels lost 120 men.

make good kindling wood. Instead of wash-day requiring ten hours of hard work it now takes less than one hour, and besides that, four-fifths of the work is done without your having to touch your hands to water. All this is done by the new scientific marvel, WASHEE WAFERS.

They act on the principle of loosening and removing every particle of dirt by means of millions of tiny explosions of steam globules constantly going on in the wash water. This cleans better, more thoroughly than could the hardest kind of rubbing or the best washing machine on earth. There's no lye, soda, acid or alkali to eat out the dirt and eat up the clothes. They make your clothes snow-white. There's no rubbing to do, no matter how soiled the clothes. Cleans woolen, muslin, linen, cotton laces, everything. One WASHEE WAFER proves it. ## PATMONT'S CASE IS BEING PROBED

Investigation of Story of Kidnapped Preacher.

DETECTIVES CHECKING IT UP

In the Quest For Motives For Kidnaping and For Clues to Parties Who Led in the Outrage, Many Considerations Enter, All Involving the Singular Mixture of Race, Creed and Customs in "Tough" Community

Danville, Ill., May 26.—Going before the Vermilion county grand jury, the Rev. Louis R. Patmont narrated the story of his abduction from Westville March 31 and the fifty days spent in captivity. County officials and private detectives are busy checking upon his story and in chasing down clues.

Westville is regarded as one of the toughest mining communities in the state. Patmont originally went into Westville as a staff correspondent for the Christian Standard, a religious periodical published at Cincinnati, with a view of exposing conditions in the slums and grogeries. He speaks twelve languages fluently and can converse in twenty all told, and his linguistic proficiency led the local "dry" forces to engage him to work among the miners in behalf of saloon abolition.

Westville has a population of some 5,000. Only about 5 per cent is of Anglo-Saxon extraction or English speaking, according to men who know the city. Nationalities cut much figure in politics. So from the first Patmont was given black looks as he went from house to house on his linguistic mission, and the theory that is most generally advanced by believers in Patmont's story is that he was grabbed with the intention of removing him as a factor that might influence the election. After that, it is surmised, his captors simply did not know what to do with him, and this is why they kept him a prisoner for fifty days.

In appearance Patmont does not look much like a man who has spent fifty days in durance. He says he has lost sixteen or eighteen pounds in weight. Otherwise he appears to be in the pink of condition. His face is ruddy and sunburnt, his neck looks tanned, his wrists no longer bear the traces of his bindings and the cuts he says he received on the forehead from crawling through a barbed wire fence appear to have healed.

The Story of Waitstill Baxter

By KATE DOUGLAS WIGGIN

Copyright, 1913, by Kate Douglas Wiggin

CHAPTER XV. A Brace of Lovers.

HAYING was over and the close, sticky dog days, too, and August was slipping into September. There had been plenty of rain all the season, and the countryside was looking as fresh and green as an emerald. The hillsides were already clothed with a verdant growth of new grass and—

The red pennons of the cardinal flowers hung motionless upon their upright staves. How they gleamed in the meadow grasses and along the brook-sides, like brilliant flecks of flame, giving a new beauty to the nosegays that Waitstill carried or sent to Mrs. Boynton every week.

To the eye of the casual observer life in the two little villages by the river's brink went on as peacefully as ever, but there were subtle changes taking place nevertheless. Cephas Cole had "asked" the second time and again had been refused by Patty, so that even a very idiot for hopefulness could not urge his father to put another story on the ell.

"If it turns out to be Phoebe Day," thought Cephas dolefully, "two rooms is plenty good enough, an' I shan't block up the door that leads from the main part, neither, as I thought likely I should. If so be it's got to be Phoebe, not Patty, I shan't care whether mother troops out 'n' in or not." And Cephas dealt out rice and tea and coffee with so languid an air and made such frequent mistakes in weighing the sugar that he drew upon himself many a sharp rebuke from the deacon.

"Of course I'd club him over the head with a salt fish twice a day under ordinary circumstances," Cephas confided to his father, with a valiant air that he never won in Deacon Baxter's presence, "but I've got a reason, known to nobody but myself, for wantin' to stan' well with the old man for a spell longer. If ever I quit wantin' to stan' well with him he'll get his comeuppance short and sudden!"

"Speakin' o' standin' well with folks, Phil Perry's kind o' makin' up to Patience Baxter, ain't he, Cephas?" asked Uncle Bart guardedly. "Mebbe you wouldn't notice it, hevin' no partic'lar int'rest, but your mother's kind o' got the idee into her head lately, an' she's turrible farsighted."

"I guess it's so!" Cephas responded gloomily. "It's nup an' tuck 'tween him an' Mark Wilson. That girl draws 'em as molasses does flies. She does it 'bout liftin' a finger, too, no more'n the molasses does. She just sets still an' is! An' all the time she's nothin' but a flighty little redheaded spitfire that don't know a good husband when she sees one. The feller that gits her will live to regret it, that's my opinion!" And Cephas thought to himself, "Good Lord, don't I wish I was regrettin' it this very minute!"

"I s'pose a girl like Phoebe Day'd be consid'able less trouble to live with?" ventured Uncle Bart.

"I never could take any fancy to that tow hair o' hers! I like the color well enough when I'm peeling it off a corn cob, but I don't like it on a girl's head," objected Cephas hypercritically. "An' her eyes ain't got enough blue in 'em to be blue. They're jest like skimmilk. An' she keeps her mouth open a little mite all the time, jest as if there wa'n't no good draft through, an' she was a-tryin' to git air. An' 'twas me that begun callin' her 'Feeble Phoebe' in school, an' the scholars'll never forgit it. They'd throw it up to me the whole 'durin' time if I should go to work an' keep company with her!"

"Mebbe they've forgot by this time," Uncle Bart responded hopefully; "though it's an awful risk when you think o' Companion Pike! Samuel, he was baptized and Samuel he continued to be, till he married the Widder Bixby from Waterboro. Bein' as how there wa'n't nothin' partic'larly attractive 'bout him—though he was as nice a feller as ever lived—somebody asked her why she married him, an' she said her cat hed jest died an' she wanted a companion. The boys never let go o' that story! Samuel Pike he ceased to be thirty year ago, an' Companion Pike he's remained up to this instant minute!"

"He ain't lived up to his name much," remarked Cephas. "He's to home for his meals, but I guess his wife never sees him between times."

"If the cat hed lived mebbe she'd 'a' been better comp'ny, on the whole," chuckled Uncle Bart. "Companion was allers kind o' dreamy an' absent minded from a boy. I remember askin' him what his wife's Christian name was (she bein' a stranger to Riverboro), an' he said he didn't know! Said he called her Mis' Bixby afore he married her an' Mis' Pike afterwards!"

"Well, there's something turrible queer 'bout this marryin' business," and Cephas drew a sigh from the heels of his boots. "It seems 's if a man hedn't no natcher drawin' towards a girl with a good farm 'n' stooks jest as if it set him ag'in' her somehow! And yet, if you've got to sing out of the same book with a girl your whole life-time, it does seem 's if you'd ought to have a kind of a fancy for her at the start, anyhow!"

"You may feel dif'rent as time goes on, Cephas, an' come to see Feeble—I would say Phoebe—as your mother does. The best fire don't flare up the soonest, you know." But old Uncle Bart saw that his son's heart was heavy and forebore to press the subject.

Annabel Franklin had returned to Boston after a month's visit and to her surprise had returned as disengaged as she came. Mark Wilson, thoroughly bored by her vacillities of mind, longed now for more intercourse with Patty Baxter. Patty, so gay and unexpected; so lively to talk with, so plucking to the fancy, so skittish and difficult to manage, so temptingly pretty, with a beauty all her own, and never two days alike.

There were many lions in the way, and these only added to the zest of pursuit. With all the other girls of the village opportunities multiplied, but he could scarcely get ten minutes alone with Patty. The deacon's orders were absolute in regard to young men. His daughters were never to drive or walk alone with them, never to go to dances or "routs" of any sort and never receive them at the house, this last mandate being quite unnecessary, as no youth in his right mind would have gone a-courtin' under the deacon's forbidding gaze. And still there were sudden, delicious chances to be seized now and then if one had his eyes open and his wits about him. There was the walk to or from the singing school, when a sentimental couple could drop a few feet at least behind the rest and exchange a word or two in comparative privacy; there were the church "circles" and prayer meetings and the intervals between Sunday services, when Mark could detach Patty a moment from the group on the meeting house steps. More valuable than all these, a complete schedule of Patty's various movements here and there, together with a profound study of Deacon Baxter's habits, which were ordinarily as punctual as they were disagreeable, permitted Mark many stolen interviews, as sweet as they were brief. There was never a second kiss, however, in these casual meetings and partings. The first, in springtime, had found Patty a child, surprised, unprepared. She was a woman now, for it does not take years to achieve that miracle; months will do it or days or even hours. Her summer's experience with Cephas Cole had wonderfully broadened her powers, giving her an assurance sadly lacking before, as well as a knowledge of detail, a certain finished skill in the management of a lover, which she could ally use on any one who happened to come along. And at the moment any one who happened to come along served the purpose admirably, Philip Perry as well as Mark Wilson.

Young Perry's interest in Patty, as we have seen, began with his alienation from Ellen Wilson, the first object of his affections, and it was not at the outset at all of a sentimental nature. Philip was a pillar of the church, and Ellen had proved so entirely lacking in the religious sense, so self-satisfied as to her standing with the heavenly powers, that Philip dared not expose himself longer to her society lest he find himself "unequally yoked together with an unbeliever," thus defying the scriptural admonition as to marriage.

Patty, though somewhat lacking in the qualities that go to the making of trustworthy saints, was not, like Ellen, wholly given over to the fleshpots and would prove a valuable convert. Philip thought, one who would reflect great credit upon him if he succeeded in inducing her to subscribe to the stern creed of the day.

Philip was a very strenuous and slightly gloomy believer, dwelling considerably on the wrath of God and the doctrine of eternal punishment. There was an old "pennyroyal" hymn much in use which describes the general tenor of his meditation—

My thoughts on awful subjects roll—
Damnation and the dead!
What horrors seize the guilty soul
Upon a dying bed!

(No wonder that Jacob Cochrane's lively songs, cheerful, hopeful, militant and bracing, fell with a pleasing sound upon the ear of the believer of that epoch.) The love of God had, indeed, entered Philip's soul, but in some mysterious way had been ossified after it got there. He had intensely black hair, dark skin and a liver that disposed him constitution-

DEMI-TAILORED FROCKS SMART FOR AFTERNOON.

One of the quaint effects for kiddies is the bolero; it is seen on long-waisted frocks, such as shown in number 8315, and also in Empire designs. Speaking of the short-waisted designs it is gratifying to note that the effective Oliver Twist suit is not to be monopolized by little Olivers alone; it is being copied for their small sisters too. The blouse is usually white, plaited in quite the same way as the boy's waist and the box-plaited skirt is buttoned on to it in the same way also. Long and short-waisted designs are equally favored this season. The dress shown here has the long waist gathered in slightly to the belt, a bolero top and elbow sleeves; white voile is the material with bolero of striped voile and trimming bands of printed crepe. For a child of eight, this dress requires 2½ yards of 36-inch material.

It is interesting to note the effectiveness of contrasting materials used in the demi-tailored afternoon costume (8336-8337). Dark blue gabardine, black taffetas and blue and white crepe de Chine are used. This combining of silks and worsteds is being indulged in considerably this season with excellent results. An extremely modish blouse and one of the new apron tunics are features of this costume. It may be copied in size 36 with 3¾ yards of material 36 inches wide for the blouse (8336) and 4¾ yards of the same width for the skirt (8337).

Number 8315 sizes 4 to 10.
Number 8336 sizes 34 to 42.
Number 8337 sizes 22 to 32.
Each pattern 15 cents.

ally to an ardent belief in the necessity of hell for most of his neighbors and the hope of spending his own glorious immortality in a small, properly restricted and prudently managed heaven. He was eloquent at prayer meeting, and Patty's only objection to him there was in his disposition to allude to himself as a "rebel worm," with frequent references to his "vile body." Otherwise when not engaged in theological discussion Patty liked Philip very much. His own father, although an orthodox member of the fold in good and regular standing, had "doctored" Phil conscientiously for his liver from his youth up, hoping in time to incite in him a sunnier view of life, for the doctor was somewhat skilled in adapting his remedies to spiritual maladies. Jed Morrill had always said that when old Mrs. Buxton, the champion convert of Jacob Cochrane, was at her worst—keeping her whole family awake nights by her hysterical fears for their future—Dr. Perry had given her a twelfth of a grain of tartar emetic five times a day until she had entire mental relief, and her anxiety concerning the salvation of her husband and children was set completely at rest.

The good doctor noted with secret pleasure his son's growing fondness for the society of his prime favorite, Miss Patience Baxter. "He'll begin by trying to save her soul," he thought. "Phil always begins that way, but when Patty gets him in hand he'll remember the existence of his heart, an organ he has never taken into consideration. A love affair with a pretty girl, good but not too pious, will help Phil considerably, however it turns out."

There is no doubt but that Phil was taking his chances and that under Patty's tutelage he was growing mellow. As for Patty, she was only amusing herself and frisking like a young lamb in pastures where she had never strayed before. Her fancy flew from Mark to Phil and from Phil back to Mark again, for at the moment she was just a vessel of emotion, ready to empty herself on she knew not what. Temperamentally, she would take advantage of currents rather than steer at any time, and it would be the strongest current that would finally bear her away. Her idea had always been that she could play with fire without burning her own fingers and that the flames she kindled were so innocent and mild that no one could be harmed by them. She had fancied up to now that she could control, urge on or cool down a man's feeling forever and a day if she chose and remain mistress of the situation. Now, after some weeks of weighing and balancing her two swains, she found herself confronting a choice once and for all. Each of them seemed to be approaching the state of mind where he was likely to say, somewhat violently, "Take me or leave me, one or the other!" But she did not wish to take them, and still less did she wish to leave them, with no other lover in sight but Cephas Cole, who was almost, though not quite, worse than none.

If matters by lack of masculine patience and self control did come to a crisis what should she say definitely to either of her suitors? Her father despised Mark Wilson a trifle more than any young man on the river, and while he could have no objection to Phil Perry's character or position in the world, his hatred of old Dr. Perry amounted to a disease. When the doctor had closed the eyes of the third Mrs. Baxter he had made some plain and unwelcome statements that would rankle in the deacon's breast as long as he lived. Patty knew, therefore, that the chance of her father's blessing falling upon her union with either of her present lovers was more than uncertain, and of what use was an engagement if there could not be a marriage?

If Patty's mind inclined to a somewhat speedy departure from her father's household she can hardly be blamed, but she felt that she could not carry any of her indecisions and fears to her sister for settlement. Who could look in Waitstill's clear, steadfast eyes and say, "I can't make up my mind which to marry?" Not Patty. She felt, instinctively, that Waitstill's heart, if it moved at all, would rush out like a great river to lose itself in the ocean and, losing itself, forget the narrow banks through which it had flowed before. Patty knew that her own love was at the moment nothing more than the note of a child's penny flute and that Waitstill was perhaps vibrating secretly with a deeper, richer music than could ever come to her. Still, music of some sort she meant to feel. "Even if they make me decide one way or another before I am ready," she said to herself, "I'll never say 'yes' till I'm more in love than I am now!"

There were other reasons why she did not want to ask Waitstill's advice. Not only did she shrink from the loving scrutiny of her sister's eyes and the gentle probing of her questions, which would fix her own motives on a pin point and hold them up unbecomingly to the light, but she had a foolish, generous loyalty that urged her to keep Waitstill quite aloof from her own little private perplexities.

"She will only worry herself sick," thought Patty. "She won't let me marry without asking father's permission, and she'd think she ought not to aid me in deceiving him, and the tempest would be twice as dreadful if it fell upon us both! Now, if anything happens, I can tell father that I did it all myself and that Waitstill knew nothing about it whatever. Then—oh, joy!—if father is too terrible I shall be a married woman and I can always say: 'I will not permit such cruelty! Waitstill is dependent upon you no longer; she shall come at once to my husband and me!'"

This latter phrase almost intoxicated Patty, so that there were moments when she could have run up to Milliken's mills and purchased herself a husband at any cost, had her slender savings permitted the best in the market, and the more impersonal the husband the more delightedly Patty rolled the phrase under her tongue.

"I can never be 'published' in church," she thought, "and perhaps nobody will ever care enough about me to brave father's displeasure and insist on running away with me. I do wish somebody would care 'frightfully' about me enough for that, enough to help me make up my mind, so that I could just drive up to father's store some day and say, 'Good afternoon, father! I knew you'd never let me marry'—there was always a dash here in Patty's imaginary discourses, a dash that could be filled in with any Christian name according to her mood of the moment—"so I just married him anyway and you needn't be angry with my sister, for she knew nothing about it. My husband and I are sorry if you are displeased, but there's no help for it, and my husband's home will always be open to Waitstill whatever happens."

Patty, with all her latent love of finery and ease, did not weigh the worldly circumstances of the two men, though the reflection that she would have more amusement with Mark than with Philip may have crossed her mind. She trusted Philip and respected his steady going, serious view of life. It pleased her vanity, too, to feel how her nonsense and fun lightened his temperamental gravity, playing in and out and over it like a butterfly in a smoke bush. She would be safe with Philip always, but safety had no special charm for one of her age, who had never been in peril. Mark's superior knowledge of the world, moreover, his careless, buoyant manner of carrying himself, his gay, boyish audacity, all had a very distinct charm for her—and yet—

But there would be no "and yet" a little later. Patty's heart would blaze quickly enough when sufficient heat was applied to it and Mark was failing more and more deeply in love every day. As Patty vacillated his purpose strengthened, the more she weighed the more he ceased to weigh the difficulties of the situation, the more she unfolded herself to him the more he loved and the more he respected her. She began by delighting his senses, she ended by winning all that there was in him and creating continually the qualities he lacked, after the manner of true women even when they are very young and foolish.

LEAVING NO LOOPHOLE FOR JOHN D.'S ESCAPE

Personal Tax Must Be Paid, Say Commissioners.

Cleveland, May 26.—Between $312,000,000 and $313,000,000 is the sum which will be placed opposite John D. Rockefeller's name on Cuyahoga county's personal tax duplicate within a few days.

Mr. Rockefeller failed to make a return, as ordered, and the county tax commissioners immediately began a compilation of a list of his tangible and intangible personal property. The return will not be placed on the duplicate, however, until a few legal points in the matter have been straightened, the commissioners say.

"We are going slow," so as to leave no loophole for Mr. Rockefeller to escape payment of this assessment," said Commissioner Fackler.

England's Colonies.

In Australia only about 117 persons in 20,000 are other than white in color. Canada is nearly as white, but in New Zealand the number of Maoris and halfbreeds reduces the proportions of whites to below 94 per cent. In South Africa the 1,250,000 Africans and Europeans live side by side with 78 per cent of colored races, while in India the European element, including the army, officials, merchants, women and children, amounts to only six persons in each 10,000.

1,500 Members Expected to Attend
Big Meeting—River Trip

By United Press.
Evansville, Ind., May 26.—Nearly every city in Indiana had its representatives here today to attend the annual state reunion of the B. P. O. E., which opened here today. Arrangements had been made to entertain 1,500 visitors. The convention opened at 11 o'clock today with a business session of the Indiana state reunion association at the Elk's home.

Lodges will contest in ritualistic work tonight for the prize banner. Following a business session tomorrow the grand parade will come in the afternoon. Cash prizes have been offered for the lodge having the largest number in the parade. Many bands will march, for the prize offered the best band has attracted an unusually large number.

On the third day will be held the baseball game between Evansville and Fort Wayne, following by a river trip.
